EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Audrey Belhumeur is a member of the Labour and Employment Law Group in the Montréal office.

In her practice, Audrey advises unionized and non-unionized businesses of all sizes regarding all aspects of labour and employment law. She advises employers with respect to the hiring and firing of employees, disciplinary measures, workplace investigations, individual or collective layoffs, human rights, as well as the interpretation and application of collective agreements and employment contracts.

Audrey has acted as an external investigator in multiple workplace investigations for all types of businesses, both federal and provincial, and has developed extensive experience in this area. Audrey has also taken a course regarding internal workplace investigations at Cornell University.

During her studies, Audrey articulated at the Superior Court for the Honorable Justices Louis Crête and Pierre Jasmin. She also distinguished herself during her university years by winning a number of excellence awards, including the Pérodeau Award for obtaining the second highest marks in her LL.B. graduating class.

Prior to joining BLG, Audrey practiced labour and employment law at an international law firm.
