Chris is a 2023 articling student at BLG's Vancouver office.

Before attending law school, he received a Bachelor of Science from the University of Manitoba, where he also completed a PhD in physiology and pathophysiology.

Chris chose to work at BLG because he was attracted to the collegial culture at the office, their strong mentorship framework, and their propensity for hosting social events that foster worthwhile connections between students and lawyers. He also appreciated BLG's large national presence as it offered opportunities to explore his diverse interests in law and to collaborate with practice groups in offices across Canada.

In his spare time, Chris enjoys participating in sports and outdoor activities, as well as cooking, baking and playing Dungeons and Dragons.
