BE A DISRUPTION EMBRACE THE (R)EVOLUTION!

Client service expectations are evolving at an unprecedented rate and new entrants to the FinTech sector are disrupting traditional business models with rapidly advancing technologies. The financial services industry is being reshaped and reinvented to respond to customer demands for convenience in banking.

Financial institutions are responding to these changes in the marketplace by developing competing technologies and partnering with FinTech to transform their service delivery, through new online banking tools and payment systems.

BLG is positioned to help both financial institutions and emerging FinTech navigate the new era of digitization and face the obstacles and issues that may arise by embracing a long term digital vision.

Our lawyers act for a variety of clients that are involved in the financial services and technology sectors, including domestic and foreign financial institutions, commercial and consumer finance entities, and mobile payments and e-wallet providers. We also provide advice to FinTech and other digital financial service providers, payment acquirers and processors, payday lenders, collection agencies and credit reporting services.

As a full service national law firm, with strength across a wide range of practice areas, BLG's financial services and technology lawyers can seamlessly draw upon the legal expertise of all practice areas, including securities & capital markets, investment management, intellectual property, commercial litigation and tax. This diverse background allows us to provide clients with comprehensive, specialized, practical advice on regulatory and payments issues.
